And real-time strategy games are one of the types of video games that can be perfectly developed on this kind of setting as proven by Last Shelter: Survival. Survive the infected by a virus A virus has infected a huge proportion of the population just like in the movie 28 Days. You have to protect your close ones by building a base and creating an army in order to attack your enemies. In other words, the game is inspired by the concept that became popular over 2 decades ago in games of the likes of Command&Conquer and Warcraft. You'll have to complete different missions and carry out actions such as the following: Build a shelter to protect yourself and train your troops. Rebuild a city and generate your own resources. Expand your army and try to get other people to join you. Trade with other players to earn more money. Make vehicles and weapons to face up to your enemies.
